

Albuquerque Dance Collaborative (ADC) is a collaborative dance group that gives individuals the opportunity to learn and train with other artists in the Albuquerque area. The team has a successful history based in hard work, integrity, and artistry. ADC is the official competition team of New Mexico Ballet Company School and strives to provide dancers with the means to train and improve their artistry through competition in a safe and healthy environment.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

- Dancers must maintain a good work ethic and be motivated to further their training
- Required to take at least 8 hours of training per week in addition to competition rehearsals
- All classes and training held out of New Mexico Ballet Company
 - Includes opportunity to participate in Company's productions and performances
- Participates in 4 local competitions, including 1 convention
- Travel for out-of-state National Finals event each season
- Competitive class tuition and team expense rates while offering quality instruction

Through ADC, dancers learn the value of hard work and dedication with a focus on cross-training in various styles and genres of movements. With 10 years of award-winning success, join ADC and become the best dancer you can be!
